Deep within the pulse of music's ever-changing landscape, you'll find The Woodchips. The trio of Tyler Taylor, Rob Weller, and Chase Hughes hail from Danville, Illinois, but their sound is shaped by experiences far beyond their hometown.

Leaving their roots, they ventured across the country to California, absorbing new influences and evolving their sound into something bold, dynamic, and entirely their own. Each song is a story, blending raw emotion with diverse musical styles that push boundaries while staying true to their storytelling heritage.

A Woodchips performance isn't just a concert. It's an invitation. A place where listeners become part of something bigger, where every note, every lyric, and every moment is a shared experience.
